Russian Spy Film

Moscow

A new Russian movie opened here last week adding a glamorous spy from the West named "Miss Luster." It is based on a real life story of Soviet economic criminals sentenced to death.

The film, "Black Business," made some changes in the case, which brought international attention because of the number of the accused with Jewish names sentenced to death.

The movie was clearly based on the so-called "Shakerman Case" last February.

In the movie Miss Luster arrives as a tourist and smuggles in gold ornaments for the gang. Associated Press
